

BUSINESS AND NONINSTRUCTIONAL OPERATIONSNew Construction: Staff/Public Involvement in Planning*A. Staff Involvement

The Stafford County School Board desires broad staff involvement in the planning of the educational specifications and design of new construction. The use of committees and conferences is encouraged in order to make use of the experience and knowledge available within the staff.

B. Public Involvement

The board encourages public interest in new school planning and invites suggestions and comments from county residents.

New facilities shall be discussed in public at board meetings and with local citizens at special board meetings. The school administrators shall be available to discuss new facilities at public meetings or with civic and professional organizations in the county.

The board shall select citizens to serve on advisory committees to ensure public understanding and public input into the planning of new educational facilities.
